WASHINGTON!

The First Skirmish on Revenue Reform Takes Place in the Ways and Means Committee.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The first skirmish of the opposing lines on the subject of revenue reform took place in the ways and means committee, resulting in a slight victory for the tariff reformers. Mr. McKinley moved to take up and consider the bill repealing the tobacco tax. Some discussion ensued from which it appeared that the democratic majority was averse to considering any specific tax reduction bill at this time, preferring to take up that class of bills in connection with the general tariff reduction bill which it is the intention of the committee to present to the house. Finally Breckenridge, of Arkansas, moved to defer the consideration of McKinley's bill, until the general subject of revenue reduction was taken up by the committee and this action prevailed by a strict party vote of 5 to 4. The committee on appropriations made ready this morning the regular annual pension bill to report to the house. The bill appropriates $80,275,500.

Speaker Carlisle is much improved this morning.

Another unsuccessful effort was made in the house to-day to consider the Wilkins banking bill. The matter went over until to-morrow.

The invitation to be represented at Melbourne exposition was accepted.

The secretary of treasury has designated the National branch bank of Madison, Ill., to be a depository of public money.

REV. D. S. KENNEDY

Receives Tidings that His Brother's Wife and Her Son Were Frozen to Death in the Dakota Blizzard.

Away off here one can scarcely realize the severity of the recent storm in the northwest.

Rev. D. S. Kennedy, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church, received a sad reminder of its fatal blasts, this morning, on his return to the city after an absence of three days.

He opened a letter from the president of the Chicago seminary, where he was schooled. It enclosed a letter from a young doctor at Sioux Falls, Dak., detailing the dreadful fate that befel the family of Rev. Mr. Kennedy's brother, who resides on a ranch near that town.

The recent blizzard struck the farm like a wave or moving cloud. The snow with it was blinding, fanned into madness by a fierce gale. Mr. Kennedy's brother and his eldest son were at the hay stables caring for stock at the time. The boy perished in an attempt to reach the house and the father, insensible to all feeling, threw himself at the foot of a straw stack to the mercy of the elements.

Mrs. Kennedy was at the house with four small children. She waited in agony but her husband and son never came. Huddling her little ones in the the corner, near a fire, she placed the lamp at the window for a signal and rushed out into the storm's fury to rescue her loved ones, but her bravery and woman's devotion was no match for the elements.

She, too fell beneath the snow drifts and was frozen to death in sight of her own cottage.

Then the storm increased its fury, broke in the doors and shattered the windows of the Kennedy home, with its four small occupants. They clung to each other and braved the cold until their father staggered into the house in the morning to find them more dead than alive. Although his hands were frozen black, his feet beyond all shape and his mind wandering, he kept the little ones alive until a rescuing party took them away and recovered the bodies of their mother and brother.

Rev. Mr. Kennedy leaves to-night for Sioux Falls, and expects to see the stricken family by Sunday.

HANK LEININGER.

The Prison Bird Leaps Through a Car Window, but is Stunned in the Fall and Recaptured.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Pete Owens, who was especially empowered by Sheriff Viberg, started for Michigan City with Henry Leininger, who is sentenced for three years to the penitentiary for burglarizing John Baughnan's shoe store.

Conductor Sanburn, of the Nickel Plate train, came back this morning and tells us that near Tippecanoe station Leininger sprang from his seat and darted through a car window, while the train was running forty miles an hour.

He fell headforemost on the frozen earth and lay unconscious in a heap long enough to stop the train and give Mr. Owens time to return and get his man.

Leininger was carried to the train and lodged safely behind the prison bars.

Conductor Sanborn marvels how Leininger escaped breaking his neck.

BANK ROBBERY!

The Tiskilwa (Illinois) Bank Robbed by Cracksmen of $6,000 in Currency.

PRINCETON, Ill., Jan. 19.—The bank at Tiskilwa, six miles south of here, was broken into by burglars, and as nearly as can be ascertained, about $6,000 in currency was taken. Both the outside and inside vaults were drilled and blown open. The burglars in their hurry to get away left over $1,000 on the floor. There is no clew.

IN THE COURTS.

Officer Sheridan Files a Charge Against Mr. T. O'Connor.

Officer James Sheridan was able to patrol his beat last night, but is still pretty sore. Both of his eyes are discolored and his face is bruised. His first business was to call at the Commercial to see Mr. T. O'Connor, the book agent who assaulted him in Mrs. Driscoll's saloon. He next ventured into Officer Rhole's precinct and with this officer went to Mrs. Driscoll's place, the avowed purpose of Officer Sheridan being to arrest O'Connor and lock him up. The book agent was no where to be found, but bright and early he hired an attorney and offered himself for trial at the mayor's court.

If he waited awhile he would have been accommodated, for Mr. Sheridan appeared and filed an affidavit charging the fellow with assault and battery.

Mayor Muhler went into the country at 10 o'clock and when he returns a warrant will be issued for T. O'Connor's arrest.

Mr. Sheridan says the man's assault was unprovoked, cowardly and brutal. He says O'Connor struck him unawares, because he (Sheridan) denied that O'Connor whipped his brother-in-law, meaning Tom Sullivan.

To hear O'Connor talk one would suppose he was harmless and innocent as a lamb, but he is not so verdant as his voice would make him appear. It was at the Driscoll place last fall that this same O'Connor whipped Tom Sullivan and pulled some of his whiskers out. He had another fight with H. C. Saynor, late of the Windsor hotel, and altogether has figured in a half dozen scraps.

The trial will attract much attention, as the fight is town talk.

10,000 HOGS.

Fred Eckert Stows Away that Number of Porkers.

"How many porkers have you stowed away this winter?" was the question put at Mr. Fred Eckart, the wealthy pork packer, this morning by THE SENTINEL reporter.

"Since the season opened I have purchased something like 10,000 hogs, but the killing time is at an end and next week, I suppose, will close the buying."

Mr. Eckert finds a good market for his meats, but is always financially able to hold them until prices are high, in fact he could create quite a corner in the pork market if he chose to.

Mr. Eckert is erecting a handsome butchers supply house, for wholesale and retail trade, near his pork packing establishment on West Main street.

In the spring his Calhoun street building will be devoted to retail trade and his office rooms.

The Alleged Arcola Abortion Case Settled.

Coroner Stellhorn this afternoon completed his inquest on the body of Celia Wingard, of Arcola, who is alleged to have died from the effects of an abortion by her betrayer, Dr. Cutshaw.

Drs. Proegler and Porter made an examination of the body. They swear there is no evidence of pregnancy, no evidence of abortion and nothing to sustain the charge.

Twenty witnesses testify likewise and the people who made the assertions are in trouble.

The coroner will completely exonerate Dr. Cutshaw.

The managers of the Old Ladies home kindly request that all persons who promised to collect for the home by the A. B. C. method report at once to their proceeding letter. It is necessary that a full report of the money thus collected be made as soon as possible.

LOVE LAUGHS!

At Locksmiths, and So It Proved in the Case of Miss Aura Lang and Mr. E. B. White.

There is another chapter in the White-Lang love romance that our reporter dropped onto this morning, and as their escapade is developing many of the characteristics of a novel, we give it with the "to-be-continued-in-our-next" conclusion.

We left our heroine, Miss Aura Lang, safely locked up in a room at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grove, at the corner of Butler and Harrison streets, while her lover, Mr. E. B. White, was waiting impatiently at the Pittsburg depot for her, where they were to take the train for Chicago to be married. They were disappointed in their plans at that time, but "love laughs at locksmiths," and so it proved in their case.

During the night, Miss Lang arrayed herself in her traveling outfit, raised the window to her sleeping room and in some manner reached the ground, where her ardent young lover was in waiting. They walked over the snow clad earth in the cold night air to the depot and were soon speeding on their way to Chicago, where ere this, no doubt, they have been united in each others love by the solemn compact of marriage.

After a short honeymoon they will return to the city to receive the forgiving kiss and the blessing of parents, who in their sincerity opposed the marriage of their young daughter. Miss Lang is only sixteen years of age, but is womanly in appearance and very handsome. Mr. White is a popular young machinist in the Pittsburg shops and is deserving of the hand of the young lady who he now, no doubt, calls "wife." The young couple have many friends in this city and they will unite in extending to them their choicest congratulations.

The Lime-Kiln Club.

"Will Moses Jumbo Comeback please step this way?" asked the President, as the meeting opened.

Brother Comeback, who has been a very quiet but deeply interested member of the club for the past few years, advanced to the desk, and Brother Gardner continued:

"Moses, I l'arn dat you am on de pint of removin' to Illinoy."

"Yes, sah."

"You will take your certificate 'long wid you, an' you will keep your membership wid us jist the same; an' any time you kin raise money 'nuff to take a freight train an' cum up an' see us you will find a hostile welcome."

"Yes, sah—Ize much obleeged, sah," replied Moses, as he wiped a tear from his eye.

"An' now I want to say a few furder words to you," resumed the President after a solemn pause. "You am gwine to cut loose an' sail in de company of strangers, an' dar' am a few things you would do well to remember.

"Remember, dat a lawyer will work harder to c'lar a murderer dan de will to convict a thief.

"Remember, dat a naybur who offers you de loan of his hoe am fishin' 'round to secure de loan of your wheelbarrer.

"Remember, dat you can't judge of de home happiness of a man an' wife by seein' 'em at a Sunday skule picnic.

"Remember, dat while de aiverage man will return de k'rect change in a business transackshun, he'll water his milk an' mix beans wid his coffee.

"Remember, dat all de negatives of de best photographs am retouched, an' de wrinkles an' freckles worked out.

"Remember, dat society am made up of good clothes, hungry stomachs, deception, heartaches, and mixed grammar.

"Remember, dat people will neber stop to queshun de truf of any rumor or any scandal affectin' your character, but it takes years to satisfy 'em dat your great-grandfadder wasn't a pirate an' your great-grandmudder de leadin' gal in a fifteen-cent ballet. You can now sot down an' close yer eyes an' reflect an' digest, an' de rest of us will purceed to carry out de usual program of de meetin'."—Detroit Free Press.

A Modest Check.

In the negotiations made some years ago by the English Government for a loan of $80,000,000 the successful contractors were the Messrs. Rothschild. In paying the first deposit toward this amount to the Government the check they drew was for the sum of $5,000,000. This was probably the largest check ever drawn by a private banking house.

SOME of the rebel soldiers are beginning to draw pensions. Lamar for instance.—Gazette.

Some of the rebel soldiers have been drawing pensions under republican administrations—Longstreet and Mosby for instance.

THE city of Toledo, Ohio, already has a bonded debt of $3,019,000, and is seriously considering a proposition to issue bonds in the additional sum of $750,000 for the construction of a natural gas pipe line. This is just the proposition before the Fort Wayne council, only we have not such an enormous debt to contend with.

SECRETARY LAMAR says of the people who opposed his nomination to the supreme bench: "It did me no harm, and only shows to what unutterably mean extremes men will descend when they have the presidential 'bee' in their bonnets. The presidential craze is like softening of the brain. No one who has once had it ever recovers."

THE falacy of the argument that "protection" enriches the laborer is forcibly demonstrated by an example near home. The will of the late W. C. DePauw, of South Bend, is contested by his eldest daughter, The estate inventories over $6,000,000, and the will gave $1,500,000 to DePauw university and about as much more to the Methodist conference. How was this great fortune amassed? In the manufacture of glass, protected under our tariff from 45 to 147 per cent. How has "American labor" fared under the law that enabled Mr. DePauw to heap up $6,000,000? In 1860 the average daily wages of glass workers was $2.96; in 1880 it was $1.79. All the glass-workers in the country have not been able to save as much money under twenty-five years of "protection" as this one manufacturer devotes to perpetuating his name in a university.

THE Terre Haute city council has passed a resolution ordering the police to close all saloons at 11 o'clock, and to close the gambling rooms entirely. The police board, a few weeks ago, instructed the police to pursue the wide-open policy, and since then public gambling has drawn to the city sports and fakirs from all directions. The police commissioners, who are also members of the council, declare the police force is in their hands by the terms of the non-partisan ordinance, and they refuse to recognize the order of the council. Weinstein, the mover of the resolution, informed Superintendent Lawler that if he did not obey the council he would vote for his removal. The other side served notice on the chief also that he must keep his hands off. The police force is demoralized as to what action to take as between the opposing factions.

Ringing Noises

In the ears, sometimes a roaring, buzzing sound, are caused by catarrh, that exceedingly disagreeable and very common disease. Loss of smell or hearing also result from catarrh. Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier, is a peculiarly successful remedy for this disease, which it cures by purifying the blood. If you suffer from catarrh, try Hood's Sarsaparilla, the peculiar medicine.

A New Word.

Mr. Simpkins took home a dog. His wife met him at the door with a broom.

"I won't have any dog here," she said, decisively.

"But, my dear," remonstrated Mr. S., "he's a genuine Skye."

"Well, he can't go skyeandering 'round this house," said Mrs. S., giving her remarks emphasis with the broom. —Detroit Free Press.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

The Relation of These Necessaries to the Tariff.

James Means & Co., of this city, have a boot and shoe factory at Brockton which gives employment to about 250 persons. Mr. Means was asked how his business would be affected by a reduction of the duty on manufactured boots and shoes. It would not be affected at all directly, he said, but if a reduction of duty on all kinds of manufactured goods were made his business would be benefited. How? In the first place, labor was cheaper in the boot and shoe manufacturing business in this country than in any other country in the world. To be sure, his employes and all others in the same line were paid two or three times as much for their labor as boot and shoe operatives received in other countries, but that fact didn't prove that labor cost more in America than elsewhere, because the average operative in an American boot and shoe factory gave a larger return in manufactured product for each dollar received in wages than did the operative of any other country.

That being the case, and hides being on the free list, he probably did a large export trade? He did nothing of the sort. The American boot and shoe export trade was hardly worth mentioning. With the splendid facilities offered by America for manufacturing purposes her export trade in boots and shoes ought to be immense; the fact remained that it wasn't. The inability to export he blamed on the "protective" tariff. It acted like a dam. It raised the general level of prices artificially, so that the cost of all products was measured by a false standard. The export of boots and shoes in large quantities was barred only by a small margin of price in spite of the tariff. This margin was made up in a variety of ways. The cost of the iron and steel in machinery and tools, the cost of building, the cost of coal, the cost of nails and tacks, and, finally, the cost of a large majority of the necessaries of life, was increased by the tariff, and the increased cost was just sufficient to keep American boots and shoes out of many of the markets of the world. This margin would disappear under a tariff not framed to obstruct trade.—Boston Special to New York Times.

DEMOCRATIC NUGGETS.

The frantic way in which The New York Tribune calls on the grangers to scratch its protective back indicates a diet of too many buckwheat cakes. The reluctance of the horny handed sons of toil to respond shows that they at least do not consider the plea of protection any great scratch.—New York Star.

In his Paris manifesto Mr. Blaine took his stand on the proposition that tobacco is a necessary. The proposition having aroused much opposition among Republicans, Mr. Sherman was quick to see that he had an opportunity to make a point against his rival. Hence, in his presidential bee speech, he planted himself on this platform: "Tobacco is a necessary luxury." There is no longer any doubt that Sherman is a greater statesman than Blaine.—Buffalo Courier.

It is a common thing for protectionists to mystify the tariff question. Their safety lies in preventing a popular understanding of the issue. They have fine spun theories.—Macon Telegraph.

Dakota Man—I'm nearly starving, sir. Washington Statesman—Why don't you go to work?

"I started a tea garden in northern Dakota, but every one of the tea plants froze. I'll have to raise tea in hothouses, but with coal at $12 a ton, I can't compete with the tea raised in China. If something isn't done I'll be bankrupt."

"All right. We'll put a tariff of $12 a pound on tea."—New Haven Register.

Even in those cases where domestic competition has brought the price down and apparently justified protection, the American manufacturers are hard at work to put the price up again by limiting production and domestic competition. This is what the "trusts" are for; and these modern inventions are gradually finding their way into every industry where there is any competition—Detroit Free Press.

It is almost enough to make a horse laugh to witness the puny conceit of some papers which talk about reading out of Republican party men who have been its strength and backbone, because they advocate a judicious reduction of the tariff. If all Republicans, skeptical as to the expediency of high protection, are subjected to such discipline, a great vacuum will be caused in the ranks of the organization.—Boston Transcript.

The administration of President Cleveland is charged with being antagonistic to American labor, as the protectionist organs claim: but Secretary Fairchild's instructions to customs collectors to keep out the alien contract labor miners which the Lehigh valley coal operators are seeking to import from Belgium don't squint in that direction. The Democratic head of the treasury department is for the American workingman and against the coal barons in this matter, to a certainty. —Newburg (N. Y.) Register.

The Democracy of the United States will congratulate Senator Voorhees on his masterly and convincing reply to the specious fallacies of John Sherman.—New York Star.

The word patriotism signifies love of country. Though both Sherman and Chandler may be at heart patriots, they show by their recent actions that the fraternal reconciliation of the once warring sections of this country, without which it cannot continue to be prosperous, is to them a thing that should be disturbed to secure the return of the Republican party to power.—Utica Daily Observer.

One of the worst things about the dishonest tariff is its tendency to the production of inferior articles. With no competition but that at home, our progress must necessarily be slow. It is an insignificant nation that cannot stand up and take its chances with the world.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

High Tariff and Low Wages.

In 1870 our iron manufacturers had a capital of $121,000,000. They manufactured a net product of $62,000,000. They employed 77,000 hands at an average yearly wage of $526. In 1880, after ten years more of "high protection and great prosperity," these same iron industries had a capital of $230,000,000. They manufactured a net product of $105,000,000. They employed 105,000 hands at an average yearly wage of only $396. Or we may state it thus: Ten years of protection increases the capital over 80 per cent., it increases the net product over 70 per cent., but it reduces wages nearly 25 per cent. See United States census reports.—P. M. Sutton in Chicago Tribune.

WAXEM ON REFORM.

TO BE MADE CHAIRMAN OF THE NEW HOUSE COMMITTEE.

It Hasn't Been Appointed Yet, but He Has Hopes That It Will Be Soon, and Great Expectations as to the Work It Will Accomplish.

[Special Correspondence.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—DERE EDDITER—When I rote you last, ef I dont disremember, I was in the dumps purty bad, and talked in a mity disgruntled way, because I had faled to git appinted cheerman of any of the house committys, and I wasent the only national legislater that felt the same disagreeable pane. No, sirree! Thar was others that looked a good deal blacker than me, and went around moarnin like Raichel for her children and refusin to be comforted, till I begun to think that they were pattriots fer revenew only, and I wasent mutch better, and then all of a suddin, the lite begun to shine on me and I begun to feel peerter, and I kind a knowed in my bones, that whatever mite hapen to the others, to me, at leest, vercher was goin to be rewarded, and it was, and in a way that does me proud. I am picked out of the whole house fer cheerman of a committy made espeshally fer the ocassun in the sake of harmony and to fill a long felt want, namely, to wit: The comitty on the reform of congressional morals. The house aint made up its mind yit finally to hav sitch a comitty, but it feels the imperativ neecessity of it, and thar is evvery reason to beleev that the comitty on rules will do evverything in its power to help along the good work thus inaggerated fer the niew yer, while our resolutions air fresh and our resolves to turn over a niew leef, and keep it turned, air in a flurishin condition.

I am to be cheerman, because Wayback has got to be reconized, and pattriotism in a state of nater, and untrameled by the lugshuries and temtation of a high pressure civilization, is what is wanted when a reform of this carackter is to be caried to a sucesful endin.

Rome fell because nater was outgrowed, and the pristeen strenth of her best sitizens was undermineded and crippeled by high livin and settin up of nites over poker and wassale and the flowin bole and similar stiles of carryins on, that no nation of peeple can stand verry long without neglectin ther buisness and plungin the comonwelth into the vortex of moral, financial, soshal and political bankrupsy, and not payin ten cents on the dollar.

I hav got all my plans laid, and with a force of tried and true pattriots on my comitty to giv me ther able and untirin support, and back me up in evvery movement toards reform, thar aint a speck of dout in my mind that in six months from our fust meetin the cashule observer visitin the house gallerys wont kno whether he has got into a temperance meetin er a Sunday school convention. Members has got to go to church evvery Sunday; no licker is to be allowed except over a doctor's stifket; no bettin of any kind is to be premited; poker is to be restrickted to one sent ante; no smilin at ladies in the gallery except relations of members will be stood; sweet smellin notes has got to be red by the comitty; full explanations, name and adress is got to be put on all flowers left on members' desks; all comitty rooms has got to be thurroly ventilated and aired, and corkscrews and other evvidences of wastin the peeple's time has got to be acounted fer, and so on clean through all the ramifications and diversifications and disipations insidentle to a statesman and pattriot's residents in the national capital durin the time he has to be thar tendin to the duties which he has been selected by the voice of the peeple to take keer of, to nercher and to develope into the gratest good fer the gratest number, which is the foundation stone of all the high and noble principles on which the proud superstructure of our great and glorious Republican institutions stands, as a menacin monument forever to the wore out and efete nationalities that has had the dry rot for the last 200 years.

That, Mr. Eddior, is the platform which I stand on; that is the issue of the hour, and He fite it out on that line ef congress don't git ajurned tell the November elections.

We hav got money, we hav got branes, we hav got buty, we hav got strenth, we hav got pattriotism and we hav got morals, but not enough in perpotion, and morals is what we hav got to hav to keep up with the percession of progress, to grease the fethers of the American eagel, and to put a shine on the star spangeled banner.

Sence this niew comitty has been suggested I hav got letters from many eminent sittizens tellin me to go ahed with the good work, and ef I can't reform the pattriots now on hand, they will be only too glad to make sacrifisis of therselves and furnish the propper material to work on by comin to congress instid of the ones allredly here. Some of these letters allmost brings teers of joy to my eyes, unused to weap, and I feel to rejoice, that the moral sentiment is strong in the land, and that thar is still an inexostible supply of pattriots reddy and willin to make enny sacritis fer this country and to suffer in her behalf on a paultry $5,000 a yer and sitch perquizets as falls to the lot of statesman that leads uprite lives and keeps ther eyes skinned.

Mandy has allso rote me a letter of congratulation, which she winds up with the question, "Air you shore they hav got the rite man fer cheerman?" but Mandy bein a woman of coarse don't kno nothin about politics, and I can only pity her ignerents and be chairitable to the nateral inquisativness of the sex.

But enough of morals. Let me now take up a business pint. Us pattriots, in a momentary spazzum of economy, wasted one whole day last week discussin whether er no the taxpayers could aford to let our house comittys have clerks er not, like the senate has got, and the time put in in tryin to save money direckly, cost the country indirecktly nigh enough to have pade clerk salleries for a whole month. I was agin the resolution to discuss, and was in favor of apintin a clerk to evvery comitty. The senate has got that sort of conveenyences, and thar aint any reezen why we oughtent to be fixed similar, and a good deal of reezen why we ought to. Ef house comittys air wuth apintin they air wuth bein equipt in a propper manner, and this thing of makin a member work extry and not git extry pay, while the senaters is rollin in luxshurious ease, aint the fair thing to us pattriots that is just as good as any other patriots and a doggone site harder worked. I am willin to suffer and indure fer my country's sake just as mutch as any other man, but I aint a goin to do it when other men no better a me has a good time and hires a clerk to do the suferin and indurin. Us congressmen is nearer to our constituents than the senaters air, and we hav a good deel more to tend to and worry us, and only two yers to do it in, and fer that reezen, I say we ought to have the same sort of help in our comitty work that the senaters hav got. This is a matter in which the peeple is intrusted, fer we air the repperesentatives of the peeple, and what is fer our benifit is fer ther benifit, and they will back us evvery time fer equal distribution of the rites of activ pattriots.

You can rite up an editorial on this subjeck, Mr. Edditor, and Ime shore it will be reseeved with eclat by yore reeders and bring in many niew subscribers to yore valubel jernal.

As I hav rote up two verry importent subjecks in this artickle fer the paper, and not wantin to bite off moren yore reeders can chaw, I will close and wate fer developments.

Hopin the cause of the laborin pattriot will yit triumf, I subscribe myself yores, truly,

In Memory of Eddie Laughlin.

[In memory of Eddie Laughlin, aged three years, died Wednesday, Jan. 11, 1888.]

In the still, dark hour of midnight,
When tired nature sought repose,
And the very air seemed sacred,
For the angel of death stood close.

A child is dying, slowly dying,
And not a sound is heard,
Save his quick, short gasps for breath,
And kind neighbors' soothing words.

The angel now draws closer,
And lays his chilling hand
Upon the brow of little Eddie,
And leads him to a brighter land.

His hands grew cold, his features pale,
His struggles cease for evermore:
His spotless soul has entered Heaven,
To sing God's praises o'er and o'er.

Parents dear, your hearts are torn,
Still you're now cause to weep,
Darling Eddie is now an angel,
And o'er your heads a watch will keep.

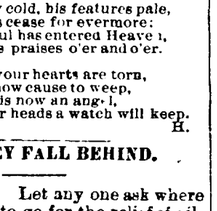
HOW THEY FALL BEHIND.

Let any one ask where to go for the relief of ailments when an external application is indicated, and the natural response is to the druggist. The druggist being in many cases not only a physician but a judge with superior advantages, the confidence in his opinion is at once explained. Besides, as a class in trade, and where there exists no pecuniary profit in recommending one thing over another, their true motive is to recommend the best at its true value.

There is really no profit in recommending the worthless, for the reaction in the minds of those who buy and are deceived is pointedly against everything sold by such a dealer. Hence, the force of the following voluntary letter, which is based upon the conscientious conviction formed from the long and cautious experience of a leading drug house of Boston, represents in every line a most important and valued revelation. "Boston, July 11, 1887—The Charles A. Vogeler Co.—Gentlemen: Many preparations are placed before the public, and for a time at least they have a large but temporary sale—large, because of the extensive advertising; temporary, as the suffering class soon realize that the compound possesses but little merit. Not so with St. Jacobs Oil. Its success has been constant from the start, and to-day we regard it as one of those standard remedies that our trade consider as absolutely essential to always carry in their stock. Personal experience and the good works of the druggists of New England all tend to prove that each year will add to its sale and well deserved popularity. Signed, Doolittle & Smith." Taking the many cases of cure, published by the proprietors, and presented in full without the enlargement of a word or letter, examples are given of its unvarying effects in the worst chronic cases, traced from beginning to end, and in connection with the unqualified indorsements of the drug trade, there is nothing in trade which can approach its efficacy.



Traffic in Stolen Diamonds.

The prices paid to thieves for stolen diamonds are sometimes ridiculously small. A diamond worth $400, which was torn from a lady's ear some years ago in Fifth avenue, was sold by the thief for less than $20, and many similar cases are on record. Diamonds are occasionally sold by dealers at less than their original cost to import, in order to procure ready money to ward off failure. In such cases legal steps have been taken to show that fraud was attempted, for, however small the amount of sacrifice claimed, dealers who compete in the same market immediately surmise that something is wrong.

It would be possible for a diamond to be stolen in any part of New York city and for it to appear twenty-four hours after in almost any jeweler's stock for sale. There are so many different grades of dealers or brokers that the thief would have no difficulty in selling to some fence, who in turn would sell to some one not particular as to the source of the stone, and thus, by successive steps, the stone might pass through a dozen hands in one day.—George F. Kunz.

A Boon

To mankind, said a member of the State Medical Society of Ga., at one of its meetings, "and the prescription ought to be given to the medical fraternity for the benefit of the Profession, for no such combination exists in the Pharmacopea as that of Simmons Liver Regulator." The late THOS. H. POWERS, of Philadelphia, America's greatest chemist, asserted "it was like the discovery of Dover, in his celebrated Dover's Powder, it could not be improved and it was wonderfully strange that the combination had never been made in an official form."

L. M. HINTON, M. D., Washington, Ark., says: "No other remedy within my knowledge can fill its place. I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive powers."

Symptoms such as bitter or bad taste in the mouth; pain in the back, often mistaken for Rheumatism; sour stomach; loss of appetite; bowels alternately costive and lax; headache; loss of memory, with a painful sensation of having failed to do something which ought to have been done; debility; low spirits; a thick yellow appearance of the skin and eyes; a dry cough often mistaken for Consumption, indicate Liver disease, and if not regulated in time great suffering, wretchedness and death will often ensue.

WHAT AILS YOU?

Do you feel dull, languid, low-spirited, lifeless, and indescribably miserable, both physically and mentally; experience a sense of fullness or bloating after eating, or of "goneness," or emptiness of stomach in the morning, tongue coated, bitter or bad taste in mouth, irregular appetite, dizziness, frequent headaches, blurred eyesight, "floating specks" before the eyes, nervous prostration or exhaustion, irritability of temper, hot flushes, alternating with chilly sensations, sharp, biting, transient pains here and there, cold feet, drowsiness after meals, wakefulness, or disturbed and unrefreshing sleep, constant, indescribable feeling of dread, or of impending calamity?

If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from that most common of American maladies—Bilious Dyspepsia, or Torpid Liver, associated with Dyspepsia, or Indigestion. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will subdue it, if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time. If not cured, complications multiply and Consumption of the Lungs, Skin Diseases, Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease, or other grave maladies are quite liable to set in and, sooner or later, induce a fatal termination.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery acts powerfully upon the Liver, and through that great blood-purifying organ, cleanses the system of all blood-taints and impurities, from whatever cause arising. It is equally efficacious in acting upon the Kidneys, and other excretory organs, cleansing, strengthening, and healing their diseases. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it promotes digestion and nutrition, thereby building up both flesh and strength. In malarial districts, this wonderful medicine has gained great celebrity in curing Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Dumb Ague, and kindred diseases.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-joint Disease, "White Swellings," Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. "FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength and bodily health will be established.

CONSUMPTION,

which is Scrofula of the Lungs, is arrested and cured by this remedy, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease. From its marvelous power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now world-famed remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "CONSUMPTION CURE," but abandoned that name as too restrictive for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for Consumption, but for all Chronic Diseases of the Liver, Blood, and Lungs.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy.

THE FOREIGN LEGATIONS.

PERSONAL GOSSIP ABOUT LEADING DIPLOMATS AT WASHINGTON.

The Coreans—How They Look and Act. Chang Yen Hoon, the Chinese Minister, and His Poetry—Kuki, the Japanese Minister—Roustan and West.

[Special Correspondence.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The Corean legation will attend their first diplomatic dinner to-night. They will appear in court costume, and Chang Yen Hoon, the Chinese minister, will be outshone by his Corean cousin. These Coreans are rare birds, and they eat with their hats on. I sat near them at dinner on the night of their arrival, and each almond eyed, orange hued noble had his cue wrapped up on the top of his head and the whole covered with a sugar loaf hat with a brim as broad as that of the Puritans. This hat was much like that of a college boy, in that it seemed to rest just on the top of the head. It was as black as jet, and seemed to be made of papier mache. These Coreans traveled from San Francisco to Washington in gowns of purple silk, with white breeches, and their shoes seemed to be sewed to their pantaloons. They had a number of servants with them, and looked ragged and dusty, and they walked swinging their arms, as though they were still on shipboard and were balancing themselves at every step. I talked with the American secretary of the legation, and he tells me that both minister and secretaries are full of blue blood. The minister himself has been lord of a province, and he has a big income from his rice farms, which cover square leagues.

Chang Yen Hoon, the head of the Chinese legation, is a poet, and he writes poetry weekly. I have been told by Liang, his interpreter, that it is not the custom for the poet in China to publish his works until he is dead, and Minister Chang Yen Hoon will probably never know of his fame. His poetry is good, so they say, and this minister has a library of 30,000 books. A thousand volumes make a very fair library, and I doubt whether there are many public libraries, outside of the large cities, which can muster 10,000. In 1870 all the private libraries of the United States contained only 25,000,000 volumes, and it is doubtful whether there is now in the United States a book for every man, woman and child within it. Bancroft's library contains from 12,000 to 15,000 volumes, or about half the number of Chang Yen Hoon's.

CHANG YEN HOON.

INTERPRETER LIANG.

The Chinese minister is a millionaire, and he lives here in a millionaire's palace. His chairs are of gold, or gilt, and their covering is silk. One of his robes would make the finest silk dress a Washington belle ever laid her eyes on, and he sports a diamond on his cap as big as the egg of a pigeon. He is learning English, and when he is not at his work he always has a book in his hand.

Kuki, who represents Japan, is also bright and brainy. He is short, dark faced, almond eyed and dark haired. He dresses in American clothes and always has a good tailor. He wears a silk hat, and his beard is made up of just 200 black strands. He is a statesman, and well fitted to represent the "Americans of the far east." English is now taught in the Japanese schools, and our postal system has been adopted by Japan. Travelers, as they come here, tell of the wonderful changes that are going on in that country, and there is no more progressive all round nation on the globe than that of the Japs.

Mme. Kuki is not now in Washington, but she mixed well with society while she was here, and she was noted as wearing fine diamonds and elegant silks made in the latest styles from Paris. Her boy, little Kuki, grows like Jack's bean stalk, and her niece, Yoshi Kuki, grows prettier day by day.

The new Turkish minister is a very fine looking fellow. He is as straight as a string, and his hair is as black and glossy as polished ebony oiled. He is a Greek, and it is said that he sleeps with the sultan. He and Sam Cox are on good terms, and Cox, by the way, has had painted on the walls of his new house this legend, in Turkish characters:

"Allah, light of the world."

MINISTER KUKI AND WIFE.

There are a number of ladies in the diplomatic circle, but many of the brightest have left within the last several years. Mme. de Struve is absent, and Frau von Eissendecker left the capital with her husband. The Baroness de Fava, the wife of the Italian minister, will probably be at the diplomatic dinner to-night, and the Viscountess de Nogueiras will also be there. Both Nogueiras and his wife are fine looking, and they represent the Portugese at Washington. The viscount is tall and dark, and he wears a white imperial. He is a man of culture, and he talks United States like a native. The Baron de Fava is also a popular man, and his wife is one of the bright women of Washington.

Germany is now represented by Herr von Albansleben, and he is a blonde bachelor. He is a highly cultured man, and has been in the diplomatic service for a long time.

MINISTER WEST.

Minister Roustan represents the French in the United States. He was for a long time at Tunis, and he aided in the establishment of the French power in northern Africa. He is straight and good looking, and, like most Frenchmen, he has had his romance. The particular one I refer to has appeared in the newspapers, but whether it is true or not I do not know. It suffices that it was not most complimentary to either Roustan or his friends.

The English legation is probably the most prosperous one at Washington. Sir Lionel Sackville West is said to have $50,000 allowed to him for entertaining each year, and the big building of the legation is one of the finest at Washington. England, it is said, expects her ministers to do much with her dinners, and a novel was recently published by a former secretary of legation to America, which tells how an English minister took in the United States years ago, and how the money spent in wining and dining the senators brought about a good treaty. This novel appeared only a short time ago, and it is said that some of the opponents of the fish commission, seeing that Joseph Chamberlain was trying to do the same thing as had been done in the past, sent a copy of this novel to each United States senator, and the result was that Chamberlain's fat jumped into the fire. Uncle Sam is fast growing older, and his eye teeth are cut. John Bull will have to adopt new tactics before he can longer twist our people around his strong thumb. Still, Minister West is nobody's fool. His whole life has been passed in diplomacy, and he has served at the court of the czar.

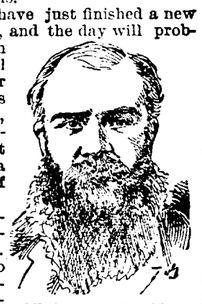
The other legations are fast buying houses in Washington, and the Germans own their own house. It is a wide, three story pressed brick, with a door in the center, and it looks like Germany—strong, but unostentatious.

The Mexicans have just finished a new legation building, and the day will probably come when each nation will float its flag over its own quarters here. Romero, the Mexican minister, is a bright fellow, and was a great friend of Grant.



MINISTER ROMERO.

One of the finest looking ministers here is Col. Emile Frey, who represents Switzerland. His father was a Swiss colonel brigadier, and his mother dates her ancestry back to the burgomaster who defended Morat against Charles the Bold, duke of Burgundy. Mr. Frey served under Gen. Grant during the war, and he was taken prisoner at the battle of Gettysburg. A Confederate captain was condemned to death by the north, and Frey was held as a hostage for him for eighteen months. When the war closed, like the Swiss Quentin Durward he is, Frey went back to the land of the Alps and entered public life. He soon rose to the head of his canton, then became a member of the national congress, of which he was president, and he is now serving his term as the foreign minister of one of the bravest little states in the world. Frey is a widower, and he is one of the handsomest men in Washington. He measures six feet from his crown to his heels, and his shoulders are as broad as a puddler's. He has a handsome, broad German face, and he parts his blonde beard at the center of his chin. That he speaks English goes without saying.

MINISTER FREY.

The Dutch minister (I mean the man who represents Holland) is Mr. DeWeckherlin, and he has been here about four years. He is a very cultured man, and he graduated at the University of Leyden. He was in the diplomatic service at Vienna and secretary of legation at Brussels, and he has represented his country at Rome and Japan. He is a widely traveled man, and, like all the Dutch, he has a great fund of knowledge. The American opinion of the Dutch people is an erroneous one, and there is scarcely a nation in Europe which is better educated and so well up to the times.

The Spanish minister is Senor Emilio de Muruaga, who is now 56, and who is the son of a distinguished army officer of Spain. He speaks five languages, and he has been a foreign minister at half a dozen different courts.

There were, all told, about thirty ministers at Washington before the advent of the Coreans, and the diplomatic corps embraces, as this letter shows, some of the most noted men in the world.

FRANK G. CARPENTER.

The most remarkable cures of scrofula on record have been accomplished by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Try it. Sold by all druggists.

I give honor to whom it is due. Dr. David Kennedy's favorite remedy cured me of Bright's disease and Gravel. Four of the best physicians had failed to relieve me. I have recommended it to scores of people with like success, and know it will cure all who try it.—Mrs. E. P. Mizner, Burg Hill, O. Send 2c. stamp to Dr. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y., for book how to cure Kidney, Liver and Blood Disorders. Mention this paper.

Facts Worth Knowing.

In all diseases of the nasal mucous membrane the remedy used must be non-irritating. The medical profession has been slow to learn this. Nothing satisfactory can be accomplished with douches, snuffs, powders, syringes, astringents or any similar application, because they are all irritating do not thoroughly reach the effected surfaces and should be abandoned as worse than failures. A mulitude of persons who had for years borne all the worry and pain that catarrah can inflict testify to radical and permanent cures wrought by Ely's Cream Balm.

Special Notice.

After January 1st, 1888, (D. V.) I will devote my attention exclusively to diseases of women and diseases of the kidneys. All who are indebted to me will please call and settle.

How One Man Cured Dyspepsia.

After suffering twenty-five years with a weak, dyspeptic stomach, I am now aged 62 years, but thanks to health journals, or the application of the principles as therein laid down, I now have a stomach that I can beat like a base drum without flinching, and a back equal to any part of the body. My great cure all has been a careful study of a diet adapted to the wants and whims of a weak stomach, excessive rubbings and deep breathing. I have enjoyed almost uninterrupted good health for the last eight years; don't know what it is to be sick a day or ever have a headache. In proof of this fact, fifteen years ago I abandoned horse shoeing on account of a weak stomach. Six years ago I took it up again, and am still shoeing up to the present time. The exercises must be persevered in as regular as the eating, taking from fifteen to thirty minutes, according to age and strength, the first thing in the morning, the last thing at night.—J. N. Semple in Herald of Health.

A Rival of Dynamite.

It may not be generally known that sauerkraut is a dangerous explosive. A Philadelphia kraut maker, who is cutting up 5,000 cabbages a day and probably knows what he is talking about, says: "If a cask of kraut is sealed when too fresh there is sure to be trouble. A cask of gunpowder is hardly more dangerous than a tightly corked barrel of fresh sauerkraut. As the stuff ferments it swells, and if vent is not furnished there is an explosion that shakes the foundation of the store and frightens the life out of the storekeeper, while the neighbors raise a cry of a dynamite plot. Seriously, sauerkraut is a dangerous article to handle."—San Francisco Alta.

To old persons and those who fear to derange their stomaches, Simmons Liver Regulator presents itself as a most admirable remedy. Owing to its mild action it can be taken by the weak and debilitated at all times and under any circumstances with perfect safety. One of the most venerable of the U. S. Senate, the late A. H. Stephens, of Ga., said "Simmons Liver Regulator, is mild and suits me better than more active remedies."

SCRATCHED 28 YEARS.

A Scaly, Itching Skin Disease with Endless Suffering Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

If I had known of the Cuticura Remedies twenty-eight years ago it would have saved me $200.00 (two hundred dollars) and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (Psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endless, and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man, but feel rich to be relieved of what some of the doctors said was leprosy, some ring worm, Psorias s, etc. I took — and — Sarsaparillas over one year and a half, but no cure. I went to two or three doctors and no cure. I cannot praise the Cuticura Remedies too much. They have made by skin as clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them was three boxes of Cuticura, and three bottles of Cuticura Resolvent and two cakes of Cuticura Soap. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $200.00 you would have had the money. I looked like the picture in your book of Psoriasis (picture number two "How to Cure Skin Diseases"), but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while but to no purpose. I am all well. I scratched twenty-eight years, and it got to be a kind of second nature to me. I thank you a thousand times. Anything more that you want to know write me, or any one who reads this may write to me and I will answer it.

Catarrhal Dangers.

To be freed from the dangers of suffocation while lying down; to breathe freely, sleep soundly and undisturbed; to rise refreshed, head clear, brain active and free from pain or ache; to know that no poisonous, putrid matter defiles the breath and rots away the delicate machinery of smell, taste and hearing; to feel that the system does not, through its veins and arteries, suck up the poison that is sure to undermine and destroy, is indeed a blessing beyond all other human enjoyments. To purchase immunity from such a fate should be the object of all afflicted. But those who have tried many remedies and physicians despair of relief or cure.

Sanford's Radical Cure meets every phase of Catarrh, from a simple head cold to the most loathsome and destructive stages. It is local and constitutional. Instant in relieving permanent in curing, safe, economical and never-failing.

Sanford's Radical Cure consists of one bottle of the Radical Cure, one box of Catarrhal Solvent, and one Improved Inhaler, all wrapped in one package, with treatise and directions, and sold by all druggists for $1.00.

But—oughtn't a man to be blamed if, having Rheumatism or Neuralgia, he wont use Ath-lo-pho-ros, when it has cured thousands who have suffered in the same way. It has cured hundreds after physicians have pronounced them incurable.

"The skill of five physicians could not cure me of Rheumatism which had settled in the hips, neck and shoulders. So intense was the pain that sleep was almost impossible. Benefits of the Moon.

The moon ministers to human wants in several ways that are not so apparent as its light-giving function, although some of them are much more important. It is by observing the position of the moon with reference to the fixed stars that the navigator determines his longitude. Upon the revolution of the moon about the earth is based a convenient division of time, the month, intermediate between that furnished by the earth's daily rotation and its revolution through its orbit. Doubtful points in ancient chronology have been frequently settled by means of eclipses of the moon, the dates of which could be accurately determined. The intervention of the moon in eclipsing the sun gave astronomers the opportunities for obtaining their first knowledge in regard to the solar envelope. But the largest effects on human welfare are produced by the moon through the agency of the tides. Twice a day the decomposing organic matter brought down to the seashore by rivers, or deposited along the water's edge by human agency, is swept away by the tidal wave in its course around the globe. This sanitary service which the moon performs is of inconceivable value. In many harbors, large ships and heavily-loaded rafts and barges are moved from the entrance to their wharves, miles above, by that slow and powerful tug, the flood-tide. An amount of work is thus done which, if it had to be provided by artificial means, would cost for such a port as London thousands, perhaps millions, of pounds yearly.—Popular Science News.

ECHOES OF THE RAIL.

Several Little Accidents—A Surprised Pullman Car Porter—News and Gossip of the Day.

Engineer Quidore, of the Wabash, is now with the Nickel Plate.

The ticket agents all report travel as very light during the cold weather.

The organ factory is closed down for a few days on account of the scarcity of work.

The railroad depots present a dull and uninteresting appearance these cold mornings.

Car loads of bananas are passing through the city on the railroads almost every day.

F. P. Wade, district passenger agent of the Wabash, with headquarters at Indianapolis, was in the city to-day.

Bruce Beamer, one of the most pleasant railroad men in the country, is at the Aveline, accompanied by his wife.

Engineer McCann, with engine 1837, leased to the G. R. & I., has returned to Andrews and reported for work on the Wabash.

Owen McAree, foreman of the Andrews boiler-makers, is sick. Boiler-maker Seabold, of Fort Wayne, is in charge of his department.

James Hughes, the foreman in the Pittsburg works, who has been sick for some time, is but little better and is still kept at home.

Julius Paraway, who runs an axle lathe in the Bass works, has been confined to his home for the last few weeks with severe sickness.

The Nickel Plate has just received two new mogul freight locomotives and three more will be added to its equipment within a few days.

The accidents that have happened around the railroads and shops during the last few days have furnished enough patients to start a good sized hospital.

Sam A. Grable, the efficient yard master of the Nickel Plate, can handle and make up more trains than any man holding the same position in the country.

Frank A. Opatz, a young employe of the Pittsburg blacksmith shops, was married yesterday to Miss Emma Perry, an accomplished young lady of this city.

Michael Ehrman, a machinist in the Pittsburg works, had his wrist badly sprained yesterday, while at work on the frame gang. He is off duty for a few days.

The drivers on the street railroad remain on duty fourteen hours a day. Their occupation during the winter months is not a pleasant one by any means.

Charles Doudrick, the Pittsburg brakeman who lost his limbs in a railroad wreck some months ago, is still confined to the room at his home on South Calhoun street.

Mr. Tom Meegan, the shop clerk at the Pittsburg works, goes to Huntington and several other Indiana towns this week on business connected with the St. Julian council.

M. Howley, a helper in the Pittsburg boiler shops, was injured yesterday by rivet which flew off and hit him in the eye. The injury will keep him from work for a few days.

There was something the matter with the boiler at Olds wheel works this morning and work in the different departments was suspended. The injury was repaired by noon and work was resumed.

The marriage mania among the boys in the manufacturing establishments of the city, which THE SENTINEL predicted several days ago, is now beginning to make itself manifest and the matrimonial ball has yet hardly got fairly started.

Two freight cars came together on the side track in front of the Pittsburg car shops yesterday with such force that both of them were pretty badly demolished. The fault seems to have been with the switchman. One of the cars was derailed.

F. G. Dasseler, a boiler maker in the Pittsburg works, while engaged in moving a boiler yesterday, had his arm nearly broken. One end of the boiler flew around, and hit him on the arm, inflicting a severe gash that will keep him a from work for several days.

The moulding rooms of the Bass works, under charge of Foreman J. J. Stier and Frank Finke, are idle to-day on account of the non-arrival of iron and the large number of workmen employed in them are taking a vacation. The men in Fred Meyer's room went to work again this morning. The moulding rooms use about 300 tons of iron a day and their shipments seem to be delayed somewhere along the road.

The passenger train on the Wabash western from Chicago to Detroit was compelled to come around by the way of this city from Columbia City last night on account of some obstruction on the track between that place and La Otta and went over on the Grand Rapids to La Otta, where it resumed its own track. The porter on the Pullman car was ignorant of its round about away and when he reached this city and got off at the depot he was dumbfounded and rushed into the ticket office to inquire where he was. The passengers on the train were also ignorant of their whereabouts.

The First Skirmish on Revenue Reform Takes Place in the Ways and Means Committee.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The first skirmish of the opposing lines on the subject of revenue reform took place in the ways and means committee, resulting in a slight victory for the tariff reformers. Mr. McKinley moved to take up and consider the bill repealing the tobacco tax. Some discussion ensued from which it appeared that the democratic majority was averse to considering any specific tax reduction bill at this time, preferring to take up that class of bills in connection with the general tariff reduction bill which it is the intention of the committee to present to the house. Finally Breckenridge, of Arkansas, moved to defer the consideration of McKinley's bill, until the general subject of revenue reduction was taken up by the committee and this action prevailed by a strict party vote of 5 to 4. The committee on appropriations made ready this morning the regular annual pension bill to report to the house. The bill appropriates $80,275,500.

Speaker Carlisle is much improved this morning.

Another unsuccessful effort was made in the house to-day to consider the Wilkins banking bill. The matter went over until to-morrow.

The invitation to be represented at Melbourne exposition was accepted.

The secretary of treasury has designated the National branch bank of Madison, Ill., to be a depository of public money.

REV. D. S. KENNEDY

Receives Tidings that His Brother's Wife and Her Son Were Frozen to Death in the Dakota Blizzard.

Away off here one can scarcely realize the severity of the recent storm in the northwest.

Rev. D. S. Kennedy, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church, received a sad reminder of its fatal blasts, this morning, on his return to the city after an absence of three days.

He opened a letter from the president of the Chicago seminary, where he was schooled. It enclosed a letter from a young doctor at Sioux Falls, Dak., detailing the dreadful fate that befel the family of Rev. Mr. Kennedy's brother, who resides on a ranch near that town.

The recent blizzard struck the farm like a wave or moving cloud. The snow with it was blinding, fanned into madness by a fierce gale. Mr. Kennedy's brother and his eldest son were at the hay stables caring for stock at the time. The boy perished in an attempt to reach the house and the father, insensible to all feeling, threw himself at the foot of a straw stack to the mercy of the elements.

Mrs. Kennedy was at the house with four small children. She waited in agony but her husband and son never came. Huddling her little ones in the the corner, near a fire, she placed the lamp at the window for a signal and rushed out into the storm's fury to rescue her loved ones, but her bravery and woman's devotion was no match for the elements.

She, too fell beneath the snow drifts and was frozen to death in sight of her own cottage.

Then the storm increased its fury, broke in the doors and shattered the windows of the Kennedy home, with its four small occupants. They clung to each other and braved the cold until their father staggered into the house in the morning to find them more dead than alive. Although his hands were frozen black, his feet beyond all shape and his mind wandering, he kept the little ones alive until a rescuing party took them away and recovered the bodies of their mother and brother.

Rev. Mr. Kennedy leaves to-night for Sioux Falls, and expects to see the stricken family by Sunday.

HANK LEININGER.

The Prison Bird Leaps Through a Car Window, but Is Stunned in the Fall and Recaptured.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Pete Owens, who was especially empowered by Sheriff Viberg, started for Michigan City with Henry Leininger, who is sentenced for three years to the penitentiary for burglarising John Baughman's shoe store.

Conductor Sanburn, of the Nickel Plate train, came back this morning and tells us that near Tippecanoe station Leininger sprang from his seat and darted through a car window, while the train was running forty miles an hour.

He fell headforemost on the frozen earth and lay unconscious in a heap long enough to stop the train and give Mr. Owens time to return and get his man.

Leininger was carried to the train and lodged safely behind the prison bars.

Conductor Sanborn marvels how Leininger escaped breaking his neck.

BANK ROBBERY!

The Tiskilwa (Illinois) Bank Robbed by Cracksmen of $6,000 in Currency.

PRINCETON, Ill., Jan. 19.—The bank at Tiskilwa, six miles south of here, was broken into by burglars, and as nearly as can be ascertained, about $6,000 in currency was taken. Both the outside and inside vaults were drilled and blown open. The burglars in their hurry to get away left over $1,000 on the floor. There is no clew.

IN THE COURTS.

Officer Sheridan Files a Charge Against Mr. T. O'Connor.

Officer James Sheridan was able to patrol his beat last night, but is still pretty sore. B th of his eyes are discolored and his face is bruised. His first business was to call at the Commercial to see Mr. T. O'Connor, the book agent who assaulted him in Mrs. Driscoll's saloon. He next ventured into Officer Rhole's precinct and with this officer went to Mrs. Driscoll's place, the avowed purpose of Officer Sheridan being to arrest O'Connor and lock him up. The book agent was no where to be found, but bright and early he hired an attorney and offered himself for trial at the mayor's court.

If he waited awhile he would have been accommodated, for Mr. Sheridan appeared and filed an affidavit charging the fellow with assault and battery.

Mayor Muhler went into the country at 10 o'clock and when he returns a warrant will be issued for T. O'Connor's arrest.

Mr. Sheridan says the man's assault was unprovoked, cowardly and brutal. He says O'Connor struck him unawares, because he (Sheridan) denied that O'Connor whipped his brother-in-law, meaning Tom Sullivan.

To hear O'Connor talk one would suppose he was harmless and innocent as a lamb, but he is not so verdant as his voice would make him appear. It was at the Driscoll place last fall that this same O'Connor whipped Tom Sullivan and pulled some of his whiskers out. He had another fight with H. C. Saynor, late of the Windsor hotel, and altogether has figured in a half dozen scraps.

The trial will attract much attention, as the fight is town talk.

10,000 HOGS.

Fred Eckert Stows Away that Number of Porkers.

"How many porkers have you stowed away this winter?" was the question put at Mr. Fred Eckart, the wealthy pork packer, this morning by THE SENTINEL reporter.

"Since the season opened I have purchased something like 10,000 hogs, but the killing time is at an end and next week, I suppose, will close the buying."

Mr. Eckert finds a good market for his meats, but is always financially able to hold them until prices are high, in fact he could create quite a corner in the pork market if he chose to.

Mr. Eckert is erecting a handsome butchers supply house, for wholesale and retail trade, near his pork packing establishment on West Main street.

In the spring his Calhoun street building will be devoted to retail trade and his office rooms.

NOTHING IN IT.

The Alleged Arcola Abortion Case Settled.

Coroner Stellhorn this afternoon completed his inquest on the body of Celia Wingard, of Arcola, who is alleged to have died from the effects of an abortion by her betrayer, Dr. Cutshaw.

Drs. Proegler and Porter made an examination of the body. They swear there is no evidence of pregnancy, no evidence of abortion and nothing to sustain the charge.

Twenty witnesses testify likewise and the people who made the assertions are in trouble.

The coroner will completely exonerate Dr. Cutshaw.

The managers of the Old Ladies home kindly request that all persons who promised to collect for the home by the A. B. C. method report at once to their proceeding letter. It is neccessary that a full report of the money thus collected be made as soon as possible.

The history, normal and catechumen classes in the Third Presbyterian church, are dismissed for this week. Mr. Kendaly received the sad news to-day of his brother James Kennedy's loss of his wife and son who perished in the Dakota blizzard.

LOVE LAUGHS!

At Locksmiths, and So It Proved in the Case of Miss Aura Lang and Mr. E. B. White.

There is another chapter in the White-Lang love romance that our reporter dropped onto this morning, and as their escapade is developing many of the characteristics of a novel, we give it with the "to-be-continued-in-our-next" conclusion.

We left our heroine, Miss Aura Lang, safely locked up in a room at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grove, at the corner of Butler and Harrison streets, while her lover, Mr. E. B. White, was waiting impatiently at the Pittsburg depot for her, where they were to take the train for Chicago to be married. They were disappointed in their plans at that time, but "love laughs at locksmiths," and so it proved in their case.

During the night, Miss Lang arrayed herself in her traveling outfit, raised the window to her sleeping room and in some manner reached the ground, where her ardent young lover was in waiting. They walked over the snow clad earth in the cold night air to the depot and were soon speeding on their way to Chicago, where ere this, no doubt, they have been united in each others love by the solemn compact of marriage.

After a short honeymoon they will return to the city to receive the forgiving kiss and the blessing of parents, who in their sincerity opposed the marriage of their young daughter. Miss Lang is only sixteen years of age, but is womanly in appearance and very handsome. Mr. White is a popular young machinist in the Pittsburg shops and is deserving of the hand of the young lady who he now, no doubt, calls "wife." The young couple have many friends in this city and they will unite in extending to them their choicest congratulations.

The Limekiln Club.

"Will Moses Jumbo Comeback please step this way?" asked the President, as the meeting opened.

Brother Comeback, who has been a very quiet but deeply interested member of the club for the past few years, advanced to the desk, and Brother Gardner continued:

"Moses, I l'arn dat you am on de pint of removin' to Illinoy."

"Yes, sah."

"You will take your certificate 'long wid you, an' you will keep your membership wid us jist the same; an' any time you kin raise money 'nuff t' take a freight train an' cum up an' see us you will find a hostile welcome."

"Yes, sah—Ize much obleeged, sah," replied Moses, as he wiped a tear from his eye.

"An' now I want to say a few furder words to you," resumed the President after a solemn pause. "You am gwine to cut loose an' sail in de company of strangers, an' dar' am a few things you would do well to remember.

"Remember, dat a lawyer will work harder to c'lar a murderer dan de will to convict a thief.

"Remember, dat a naybur who offers you de loan of his hoe am fishin' 'round to secure de loan of your wheelbarrer.

"Remember, dat you can't judge of de home happiness of a man an' wife by seein' 'em at a Sunday skule picnic.

"Remember, dat while de average man will return de k'rect change in a business transackshun, he'll water his milk an' mix beans wif his coffee.

"Remember, dat all de negatives of de best photographs am retouched, an' de wrinkles an' freckles worked out.

"Remember, dat society am made up of good clothes, hungry stomachs, deception, heartaches, and mixed grammar.

"Remember, dat people will neber stop to question de truf of any rumor or any scandal affectin' your character, but it takes years to satisfy 'em dat your great-grandfadder wasn't a pirate an' your great-grandmudder de leadin' gal in a fifteen-cent ballet. You can now sot down an' close yer eyes an' reflect an' digest, an' de rest of me will purceed to carry out de usual program of de meetin'."—Detroit Free Press.

A Modest Check.

In the negotiations made some years ago by the English Government for a loan of £20,000,000 the successful contractors were the Messrs. Rothschild. In paying the first deposit toward this amount to the Government the check they drew was for the sum of £20,000. This was probably the largest check ever drawn by a private banking house.

THURSDAY, JAN. 19, 1888.

THE Allen county republicans have ignored and set aside the state organization.

THIS is delightful winter weather and ice men and "loggers," to use a lumber region phrase, are happy.

KANSAS CITY has been admitted to the American Base Ball association. They must have something to keep up the boom.

AFTER all, what would we do for something to quarrel about if the water works question was settled? The thought is oppressive.

AN Ohio woman has been fined $100 and sent to jail for keeping a secret, yet men will scoff at the idea of a woman holding her tongue.

THE Marion Daily Democrat will be started before the 1st of February. It will be a four-page twenty-four column paper, at ten cents a week.

THE senate has passed the bill to refund to the states the direct tax, by a vote of 48 to 10. If this bill passes the house Indiana will receive a handsome sum.

SOME of the rebel soldiers are beginning to draw pensions. Lamar for instance.—Gazette.

Some of the rebel soldiers have been drawing pensions under republican administrations—Longstreet and Mosby for instance.

THE city of Toledo, Ohio, already has a bonded debt of $3,019,000, and is seriously considering a proposition to issue bonds in the additional sum of $750,000 for the construction of a natural gas pipe line. This is just the proposition before the Fort Wayne council, only we have not such an enormous debt to contend with.

SECRETARY LAMAR says of the people who opposed his nomination to the supreme bench: "It did me no harm, and only shows to what unutterably mean extremes men will descend when they have the presidential 'bee' in their bonnets. The presidential craze is like softening of the brain. No one who has once had it ever recovers."

THE falsey of the argument that "protection" enriches the laborer is forcibly demonstrated by an example near home. The will of the late W. C. DePauw, of South Bend, is contested by his eldest daughter. The estate inventories over $6,000,000, and the will gave $1,500,000 to DePauw university and about as much more to the Methodist conference. How was this great fortune amassed? In the manufacture of glass, protected under our tariff from 45 to 147 per cent. How has "protection's labor" fared under the law that enabled Mr. DePauw to heap up $6,000,000? In 1860 the average daily wages of glass workers was $2.96; in 1880 it was $1.79. All the glass-workers in the country have not been able to save as much money under twenty-five years of "protection" as this one manufacturer devotes to perpetuating his name in a university.

THE Terre Haute city council has passed a resolution ordering the police to close all saloons at 11 o'clock, and to close the gambling rooms entirely. The police board, a few weeks ago, instructed the police to pursue the wide open policy, and since then public gambling has drawn to the city sports and fakirs from all directions. The police commissioners, who are also members of the council, declare the police force is in their hands by the terms of the non-partisan ordinance, and they refuse to recognize the order of the council. Weinstein, the mover of the resolution, informed Superintendent Lawler that if he did not obey the council he would vote for his removal. The other side served notice on the chief also that he must keep his hands off. The police force is demoralized as to what action to take as between the opposing factions.

Stinging Noises

In the ears, sometimes a roaring, buzzing sound, are caused by catarrh, that exceedingly disagreeable and very common disease. Loss of smell or hearing also result from catarrh. Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier, is a peculiarly successful remedy for this disease, which it cures by purifying the blood. If you suffer from catarrh, try Hood's Sarsaparilla, the peculiar medicine.

Mr. Simpkins took home a dog. His wife met him at the door with a broom.

"Well he can't go skyeandering 'round this house," said Mrs. S., giving her remarks emphasis with the broom.—Detroit Free Press.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

The Relation of These Necessaries to the Tariff.

James Means & Co., of this city, have a boot and shoe factory at Brockton which gives employment to about 250 persons. Mr. Means was asked how his business would be affected by a reduction of the duty on manufactured boots and shoes. It would not be affected at all directly, he said, but if a reduction of duty on all kinds of manufactured goods were made his business would be benefited. How? In the first place, labor was cheaper in the boot and shoe manufacturing business in this country than in any other country in the world. To be sure, his employes and all others in the same line were paid two or three times as much for their labor as boot and shoe operatives receive in other countries, but that fact didn't prove that labor cost more in America than elsewhere, because the average operative in an American boot and shoe factory gave a larger return in manufactured product for each dollar received in wages than did the operative of any other country.

That being the case, and hides being on the free list, he probably did a large export trade? He did nothing of the sort. The American boot and shoe export trade was hardly worth mentioning. With the splendid facilities offered by America for manufacturing purposes her export trade in boots and shoes ought to be immense; the fact remained that it wasn't. The inability to export he blamed on the "protective" tariff. It acted like a dam. It raised the general level of prices artificially, so that the cost of all products was measured by a false standard. The export of boots and shoes in large quantities was barred only by a small margin of price in spite of the tariff. This margin was made up in a variety of ways. The cost of the iron and steel in machinery and tools, the cost of building, the cost of coal, the cost of nails and tacks, and, finally, the cost of a large majority of the necessaries of life, was increased by the tariff, and the increased cost was just sufficient to keep American boots and shoes out of many of the markets of the world. This margin would disappear under a tariff not framed to obstruct trade.—Boston Special to New York Times.

DEMOCRATIC NUGGETS.

The frantic way in which The New York Tribune calls on the grangers to scratch its protective back indicates a diet of too many buckwheat cakes. The reluctance of the horny handed sons of toil to respond shows that they at least do not consider the plea of protection any great scratch.—New York Star.

In his Paris manifesto Mr. Blaine took his stand on the proposition that tobacco is a necessary. The proposition having aroused much opposition among Republicans, Mr. Sherman was quick to see that he had an opportunity to make a point against his rival. Hence, in his presidential bee speech, he planted himself on this platform: "Tobacco is a necessary luxury." There is no longer any doubt that Sherman is a greater statesman than Blaine.—Buffalo Courier.

It is a common thing for protectionists to mystify the tariff question. Their safety lies in preventing a popular understanding of the issue. They have fine spun theories.—Macon Telegraph.

Dakota Man—I'm nearly starving, sir. Washington Statesman—Why don't you go to work?

"I started a tea garden in northern Dakota, but every one of the tea plants froze. I'll have to raise tea in hothouses, but with coal at $12 a ton, I can't compete with the tea raised in China. If something isn't done I'll be bankrupt."

"All right. We'll put a tariff of $12 a pound on tea."—New Haven Register.

Even in those cases where domestic competition has brought the price down and apparently justified protection, the American manufacturers are hard at work to put the price up again by limiting production and domestic competition. This is what the "trusts" are for; and these modern inventions are gradually finding their way into every industry where there is any competition.—Detroit Free Press.

It is almost enough to make a horse laugh to witness the puny conceit of some papers which talk about reading out of Republican party men who have been its strength and backbone, because they advocate a judicious reduction of the tariff. If all Republicans, skeptical as to the expediency of high protection, are subjected to such discipline, a great vacuum will be caused in the ranks of the organization.—Boston Transcript.

The administration of President Cleveland is charged with being antagonistic to American labor, as the protectionist organs claim; but Secretary Fairchild's instructions to customs collectors to keep out the alien contract labor miners which the Lehigh valley coal operators are seeking to import from Belgium don't squint in that direction. The Democratic head of the treasury department is for the American workingman and against the coal barons in this matter, to a certainty.—Newburg (N. Y.) Register.

The Democracy of the United States will congratulate Senator Voorhees on his masterly and convincing reply to the specious fallacies of John Sherman.—New York Star.

The word patriotism signifies love of country. Though both Sherman and Chandler may be at heart patriots, they show by their recent actions that the fraternal reconciliation of the once warring sections of this country, without which it cannot continue to be prosperous, is to them a thing that should be disturbed to secure the return of the Republican party to power.—Utica Daily Observer.

One of the worst things about the dishonest tariff is its tendency to the production of inferior articles. With no competition but that at home, our progress must necessarily be slow. It is an insignificant nation that cannot stand up and take its chances with the world.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

High Tariff and Low Wages.

In 1870 our iron manufacturers had a capital of $121,000,000. They manufactured a net product of $62,000,000. They employed 77,000 hands at an average yearly wage of $756. In 1880, after ten years more of high protection and great prosperity, these same iron industries had a capital of $250,000,000. They manufactured a net product of $165,000,000. They employed 161,000 hands at an average yearly wage of only $396. Or we may state it thus: Ten years of protection increases the capital over 80 per cent., it increases the net product over 70 per cent., but it reduces wages nearly 25 per cent. See United States census reports.—P. M. Sutton in Chicago Tribune.

WAXEM ON REFORM.

TO BE MADE CHAIRMAN OF THE NEW HOUSE COMMITTEE.

It Hasn't Been Appointed Yet, but He Has Hopes That It Will Be Soon, and Great Expectations as to the Work It Will Accomplish.

(Special Correspondence.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—DEER EDDITER—When I rote you last, ef I dont disremember, I was in the dumps purty bad, and talked in a mity disgruntled way, because I had failed to git appinted cheerman of any of the house committys, and I wasent the only national legislater that felt the same disagreeable pane. No, siree! Thar was others that looked a good deal blacker than me, and went around mournin like Rachel for her children and refusin to be comforted, till I begun to think that they were pattriots fer revenew only, and I wasent mutch better, and then all of a suddin, the lite begun to shine on me and I begun to feel peerter, and I kind a knowed in my bones, that whatever mite hapen to the others, to me, at least, vercher was goin to be rewarded, and it was, and in a way that does me proud. I am picked out of the whole house fer cheerman of a committy made espeshally fer the ocassun in the sake of harmony and to fill a long felt want, namely, to wit: The comitty on the reform of congressional morals. The house aint made up its mind yit finally to hav sitch a comitty, but it feels the imperativ necessity of it, and that is evvery reason to believe that the comitty on rules will do everything in its power to help along the good work thus inaggerated fer the new yer, while our resolutions air fresh and our resolves to turn over a niew leef, and keep it turned, air in a flurishin condition.

I am to be cheerman, because Wayback has got to be reconized, and pattriotism in a state of nater, and untrameled by the lunshuries and temtation of a high pressure civilization, is what is wanted when a reform of this carackter is to be caried to a sucessful endin.

Rome fell because nater was outgrowed, and the pristeen strenth of her best sittizens was undermineded and crippeled by high livin and settin up of nites over poker and wassale and the flowin bole and similar stiles of carryins on, that no nation of people can stand verry long without neglectin ther buisness and plungin the comonwelth into the vortex of moral, financial, soshal and political hankrupsy, and not payin ten cents on the dollar.

I hav got all my plans laid, and with a force of tried and true pattyots on my comitty to giv me ther able and untirin support, and back me up in evvery movement towrds reform, thar aint a speck of dout in my mind that in six months from our fust meetin the casbule observer visitin the house gallerys wont kno whether he has got into a temperance meetin or a Sunday school convention. Members has got to go to church evvery Sunday; no licker is to be allowed except over a doctor's stifket; no bettin of any kind is to be premited; poker is to be restricted to one sent ante; no smilin at ladies in the gallery except relations of members will be stood; sweet smellin notes has got to be red by the comitty; full explanations, name and adress is got to be put on all flowers left on members' desks; all comitty rooms has got to be thurroly ventilated and aired, and corkscrews and other evvidences of wastin the people's time has got to be accounted fer, and so on clean through all the ramifications and disipations insidentle to a statesman and patriot's residents in the national capital durin the time he has to be thar tendin to the duties which he has been selected by the voice of the people to take keer of, to nercher and to develope into the gratest good fer the gratest number, which is the foundation stone of all the high and noble principles on which the proud superstructure of our great and glorious Republican institutions stands, as a menacin monument forever to the wore out and efete nationalities that has had the dry rot for the last 200 years.

That, Mr. Eddior, is the platform which I stand on; that is the issue of the hour, and He fite it out on that line ef congress don't git ajurned tell the November elections.

We hav got money, we hav got branes, we hav got buty, we hav got strenth, we hav got pattriotism and we hav got morals, but not enough in perpotion, and morals is what we hav got to hav to keep up with the percession of procress, to grease the fethers of the American eagel, and to put a shine on the star spangeled banner.

Sence this niew comitty has been sugjested I hav got letters from many eminent sittizens tellin me to go ahed with the good work, and ef I can't reform the pattriots now on hand, they will be only too glad to make sacrifisis of themselves and furnish the proper material to work on by comin to congress instid of the ones allreddy here. Some of these letters almost brings teers of joy to my eyes, unused to weap, and I feel to rejoice, that the moral sentiment is strong in the land, and that thar is still an incorect supply of pattriots reddy and willin to make enny sacrifice for this country and to suffer in her behalf on a paultry $5,000 a yer and sitch perquizets as falls to the lot of statesmen that leads uprite lives and keeps ther eyes skinned.

Mandy has also rote me a letter of congratulation, which she winds up with the question, "Are you shure they hav got the rite man fer cheerman?" but Mandy bein a woman of course don't kno nothin about politics, and I can only pity her ignerents and be charitable to the materal inquisitiveness of the sex.

But enough of morals. Let me now take up a business pint. Us pattriots, in a moment fairy sparzum of economy, wasted one whole day last week discussin whether or not the taxpayers could afford to let our house committys have clerks or not. Like the senate has got, and the time put in in tryin to save money directly, cost the country indirekly nigh enough to have paide clerk sallries for a whole month. I was upon the resolution to discuss, and was in favor of appintin a clerk to every committy. The senate has got that sort of conservatives and ther aint any reezen why we consistent to be fixed similar, and a good deal of reezen why we ought to. Ef house committys air with appintin they air with hem equipt in a proper manner, and this thing of makin a member work extry and not git extry pay, while the senaters is rollin in luxshurious ease, aint the fair thing, to us pattriots that is just as good as any other pattriots and a doggone site harder worked. I am willin to suffer and indure for my country's sake just as mutch as any other man, but I aint a goin to do it when other men no better'n me has a good time and hires a clerk to do the sufferin and indurin. Us congressmen is nearer to our constituents than the senaters air, and we hav a good deal more to tend to and worry us, and only two yers to do it in, and fer that reezen, I say we ought to have the same sort of help in our comitty work that the senaters hav got. This is a matter in which the people is intrusted, fer we air the representatives of the people, and what is fer our benifit is fer ther benifit, and they will back us evvery time fer equal distribution of the rites of activ pattriots.

You can rite up an editorial on this subjeck, Mr. Edditor, and I me shore it will be reseeved with eclat by yore readers and bring in many niew subscribers to yore valubel jernal.

As I hav rote up two verry important subjecks in this artickle for the paper, and not wantin to bite off moren yore readers can chaw, I will close and wate fer developments.

Hopin the cause of the laborin pattriot will yit triumf, I subscribe myself yores, truly,

In Memory of Eddie Laughlin.

[In memory of Eddie Laughlin, aged three years, died Wednesday, Jan. 11, 1888.]

In the still, dark hour of midnight,
When tired nature sought repose,
And the very air seemed sacred,
For the angel of death stood close.

A child is dying, slowly dying,
And not a sound is heard,
Save his quick, short gasps for breath,
And kind neighbors soothing words.

The angel now draws closer,
And lays his chilling hand
Upon the brow of little Eddie,
And leads him to a brighter land.

His hands grew cold, his features pale,
His struggles cease forevermore;
His spotless soul has entered Heaven
To sing God's praises o'er and o'er.

Parents dear, your hearts are torn,
Still you've now cause to weep,
Darling Eddie is now an angel,
And o'er your heads a watch will keep.

HOW THEY FALL BEHIND.

Let any one ask where to go for the relief of ailments when an external application is indicated, and the natural response is to the druggist. The druggist being in many cases not only a physician but a judge with superior advantages, the confidence in his opinion is at once explained. Besides, as a class in trade, and where there exists no pecuniary profit in recommending one thing over another, their true motive is to recommend the best at its true value.

There is really no profit in recommending the worthless, for the reaction in the minds of those who buy and are deceived is pointedly against everything sold by such a dealer. Hence, the force of the following voluntary letter, which is based upon the conscientious conviction formed from the long and cautious experience of a leading drug house of Boston, represents in every line a most important and valued revelation. "Boston, July 11, 1887—The Charles A. Vogeler Co.—Gentlemen: Many preparations are placed before the public, and for a time at least they have a large but temporary sale—large, because of the extensive advertising; temporary, as the suffering class soon realize that the compound possesses but little merit. Not so with St. Jacobs Oil. Its success has been constant from the start, and to day we regard it as one of those standard remedies that our trade consider as absolutely essential to always carry in their stock. Personal experience and the good works of the druggists of New England all tend to prove that each year will add to its sale and well deserved popularity. Signed, Doolittle & Smith."

Taking the many cases of cure, published by the proprietors, and presented in full without the enlargement of a word or letter, examples are given of its unvarying effects in the worst chronic cases, traced from beginning to end, and in connection with the unqualified indorsements of the drug trade, there is nothing in trade which can approach its efficacy.

Traffic in Stolen Diamonds.

The prices paid to thieves for stolen diamonds are sometimes ridiculously small. A diamond worth $400, which was torn from a lady's ear some years ago in Fifth avenue, was sold by the thief for less than $20, and many similar cases are on record. Diamonds are occasionally sold by dealers at less than their original cost to import, in order to procure ready money to ward off failure. In such cases legal steps have been taken to show that fraud was attempted, for, however small the amount of sacrifice claimed, dealers who compete in the same market immediately surmise that something is wrong.

It would be possible for a diamond to be stolen in any part of New York city and for it to appear twenty four hours after in almost any jeweler's stock for sale. There are so many different grades of dealers or brokers that the thief would have no difficulty in selling to some fence, who in turn would sell to some one not particular as to the source of the stone, and thus, by successive steps, the stone might pass through a dozen hands in one day.—George F. Kunz.

A Boon

To mankind, said a member of the State Medical Society of Ga., at one of its meetings, "and the prescription ought to be given to the medical fraternity for the benefit of the Profession, for as such combination exists in the Pharmacopeia as that of Simmons Liver Regulator." The late THOS. H. POWERS, of Philadelphia, America's greatest chemist, asserted "it was like the discovery of Dover, in his celebrated Dover's Powder, it could not be improved and it was wonderfully strange that the combination had never been made in an official form."

L. M. HIESTON M. D., Washington, Ark., says: "No other remedy within my knowledge can fill its place. I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive powers."

Symptoms such as bitter or bad taste in the mouth; pain in the back, often mistaken for Rheumatism; sour stomach; loss of appetite; bowels alternately costive and lax; headache; loss of memory, with a painful sensation of having failed to do something which ought to have been done; debility; low spirits; a thick yellow appearance of the skin and eyes; a dry cough often mistaken for Consumption, indicate Liver disease, and if not regulated in time great suffering, wretchedness and death will often ensue.

WHAT AILS YOU?

Do you feel dull, languid, low-spirited, lifeless, and indescribably miserable, both physically and mentally; experience a sense of fullness or bloating after eating, or of "goneness," or emptiness of stomach in the morning, tongue coated, bitter or bad taste in mouth, irregular appetite, dizziness, frequent headaches, blurred eyesight, "floating specks" before the eyes, nervous prostration or exhaustion, irritability of temper, hot flushes, alternating with chilly sensations, sharp, biting, transient pains here and there, cold feet, drowsiness after meals, wakefulness, or disturbed and unrefreshing sleep, constant, indescribable feeling of dread, or of impending calamity?

If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from that most common of American maladies—Bilious Dyspepsia, or Torpid Liver, associated with Dyspepsia, or Indigestion. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will subdue it, if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time. If not cured, complications multiply and Consumption of the Lungs, Skin Diseases, Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease, or other grave maladies are quite liable to set in and, sooner or later, induce a fatal termination.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery acts powerfully upon the Liver, and through that great blood-purifying organ, cleanses the system of all blood-taints and impurities, from whatever cause arising. It is equally efficacious in acting upon the Kidneys, and other excretory organs, cleansing, strengthening and healing their diseases. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it promotes digestion and nutrition, thereby building up both flesh and strength. In malarial districts, this wonderful medicine has gained great celebrity in curing Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Dumb Ague, and kindred diseases.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, vitalizing medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-Joint Disease, "White Swellings," Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send ten cents in stamps for a large Treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a Treatise on Scrofulous Affections.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength and bodily health will be established.

CONSUMPTION,

which is Scrofula of the Lungs, is arrested and cured by this remedy, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease. From its marvelous power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now world-famed remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it the "CONSUMPTION CURE," but abandoned that name as too restrictive for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for Consumption, but for all

THE FOREIGN LEGATIONS.

PERSONAL GOSSIP ABOUT LEADING DIPLOMATS AT WASHINGTON.

The Corean—How They Look and Act. Chang Yen Hoon, the Chinese Minister, and His Poetry—Kuki, the Japanese Minister—Roustan and West.

[Special Correspondence.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The Corean legation will attend their first diplomatic dinner to-night. They will appear in court costume, and Chang Yen Hoon, the Chinese minister, will be out-done by his Corean cousin. These Coreans are rare birds, and they eat with their hats on. I sat near them at dinner on the night of their arrival, and each almond eyed, orange hued noble had his cue wrapped up on the top of his head and the whole covered with a sugar loaf hat with a brim as broad as that of the Puritans. This hat was much like that of a college boy, in that it seemed to rest just on the top of the head. It was as black as jet, and seemed to be made of papier mache. These Coreans traveled from San Francisco to Washington in gowns of purple silk, with white breeches, and their shoes seemed to be sewed to their pantaloons. They had a number of servants with them, and looked ragged and dusty, and they walked swinging their arms, as though they were still on shipboard and were balancing themselves at every step. I talked with the American secretary of the legation, and he tells me that both minister and secretaries are full of blue blood. The minister himself has been lord of a province, and he has a big income from his rice farms, which cover square leagues.

Chang Yen Hoon, the head of the Chinese legation, is a poet, and he writes poetry weekly. I have been told by Liang, his interpreter, that it is not the custom for the poet in China to publish his works until he is dead, and Minister Chang Yen Hoon will probably never know of his fame. His poetry is good, so they say, and this minister has a library of 20,000 books. A thousand volumes make a very fair library, and I doubt whether there are many public libraries, outside of the large cities, which can muster 10,000. In 1870 all the private libraries of the United States contained only 25,000,000 volumes, and it is doubtful whether there is now in the United States a book for every man, woman and child within it. Bancroft's library contains from 12,000 to 15,000 volumes, or about half the number of Chang Yen Hoon's.

INTERPRETER LIANG.

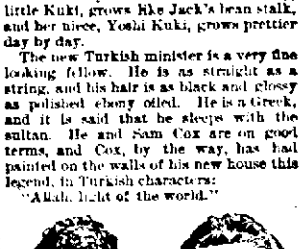
The Chinese minister is a millionaire, and he lives here in a millionaire's palace. His chairs are of gold, or gilt, and their covering is silk. One of his robes would make the finest silk dress a Washington belle ever laid her eyes on, and he sports a diamond on his cap as big as the egg of a pigeon. He is learning English, and when he is not at his work he always has a book in his hand.

Kuki, who represents Japan, is also bright and brainy. He is short, dark faced, almond eyed and dark haired. He dresses in American clothes and always has a good tailor. He wears a silk hat, and his beard is made up of just 200 black strands. He is a statesman, and well fitted to represent the "Americans of the far east." English is now taught in the Japanese schools, and our postal system has been adopted by Japan. Travelers, as they come here, tell of the wonderful changes that are going on in that country, and there is no more progressive all round nation on the globe than that of the Japs.

Mme. Kuki is not now in Washington, but she mixed well with society while she was here, and she was noted as wearing fine diamonds and elegant silks made in the latest styles from Paris. Her boy, little Kuki, grows like Jack's bean stalk, and her niece, Yoshi Kuki, grows prettier day by day.

The new Turkish minister is a very fine looking fellow. He is as straight as a string, and his hair is as black and glossy as polished ebony oiled. He is a Greek, and it is said that he sleeps with the sultan. He and Sam Cox are on good terms, and Cox, by the way, has had painted on the walls of his new house this legend, in Turkish characters:

"Allah, light of the world."



MINISTER KUKI AND WIFE.

There are a number of ladies in the diplomatic circle, but many of the brightest have left within the last several years. Mme. de Struve is absent, and Frau von Eissendecker left the capital with her husband. The Baroness de Fava, the wife of the Italian minister, will probably be at the diplomatic dinner to-night, and the Viscountess de Nogueras will also be there. Both Nogueras and his wife are fine looking, and they represent the Portugese at Washington. The vise-mis is tall and dark, and he wears a white imperial. He is a man of culture, and he talks United States like a native. The Baron de Fava is also a popular man, and his wife is one of the bright women of Washington.

Germany is now represented by Herr von Alvensleben, and he is a blonde bachelor. He is a highly cultured man, and has been in the diplomatic service for a long time.

MINISTER WEST.

Minister Roustan represents the French in the United States. He was for a long time at Tunis, and he aided in the establishment of the French power in northern Africa. He is straight and good looking, and, like most Frenchmen, he has had his romance. The particular one I refer to has appeared in the newspapers, but whether it is true or not I do not know. It suffices that it was not most complimentary to either Roustan or his friends.

The English legation is probably the most prosperous one at Washington. Sir Lionel Sackville West is said to have $50,000 allowed to him for entertaining each year, and the big building of the legation is one of the finest at Washington. England, it is said, expects her ministers to go much with her dinners, and a novel was recently published by a former secretary of legation to America, which tells how an English minister took in the United States years ago, and how the money spent in wining and dining the senators brought about a good treaty. This novel appeared only a short time ago, and it is said that some of the opponents of the fish commission, seeing that Joseph Chamberlain was trying to do the same thing as had been done in the past, sent a copy of this novel to each United States senator, and the result was that Chamberlain's fat jumped into the fire. Uncle Sam is fast growing older, and his eye teeth are cut. John Bull will have to adopt new tactics before he can longer twist our people around his strong thumb. Still, Minister West is nobody's fool. His whole life has been passed in diplomacy, and he has served at the court of the czar.

The other legations are fast buying houses in Washington, and the Germans own their own house. It is a wide, three story pressed brick, with a door in the center, and it looks like Germany—strong, but unostentatious.

The Mexicans have just finished a new legation building, and the day will probably come when each nation will float its flag over its own quarters here. Romero, the Mexican minister, is a bright fellow, and was a great friend of Grant.

MINISTER ROMERO.

One of the finest looking ministers here is Col. Emile Frey, who represents Switzerland. His father was a Swiss colonel brigadier, and his mother dates her ancestry back to the burgomaster who defended Morat against Charles the Bold, duke of Burgundy. Mr. Frey served under Gen. Grant during the war, and he was taken prisoner at the battle of Gettysburg. A Confederate captain was condemned to death by the north, and Frey was held as a hostage for him for eighteen months. When the war closed, like the Swiss Quentin Durward he is, Frey went back to the land of the Alps and entered public life. He soon rose to the head of his canton, then became a member of the national congress, of which he was president, and he is now serving his term as the foreign minister of one of the bravest little states in the world. Frey is a widower, and he is one of the handsomest men in Washington. He measures six feet from his crown to his heels, and his shoulders are as broad as a pudder's. He has a handsome, broad German face, and he parts his blonde beard at the center of his chin. That he speaks English goes without saying.

MINISTER FREY.

The Dutch minister (I mean the man who represents Holland) is Mr. DeWeckherlin, and he has been here about four years. He is a very cultured man, and he graduated at the University of Leyden. He was in the diplomatic service at Vienna and secretary of legation at Brussels, and he has represented his country at Rome and Japan. He is a widely traveled man, and, like all the Dutch, he has a great fund of knowledge. The American opinion of the Dutch people is an erroneous one, and there is scarcely a nation in Europe which is better educated and so well up to the times.

The Spanish minister is Senor Emilio de Muruaga, who is now 56, and who is the son of a distinguished army officer of Spain. He speaks five languages, and he has been a foreign minister at half a dozen different courts.

There were, all told, about thirty ministers at Washington before the advent of the Coreans, and the diplomatic corps embraces, as this letter shows, some of the most noted men in the world.

FRANK G. CARPENTER.

The most remarkable cure of scrofula on record have been accomplished by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Try it. Sold by all druggists.

I give honor to whom it is due. Dr. David Kennedy's favorite remedy cured me of Bright's disease and Gravel. Four of the best physicians had failed to relieve me. I have recommended it to scores of people with like success, and know it will cure all who try it.—Mrs. E. P. Miller, Burg Hill, O. Send 2c. stamp to Dr. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y., for book how to cure Kidney, Liver and Blood Disorders. Mention this paper.

Facts Worth Knowing.

In all diseases of the nasal mucous membrane the remedy used must be non-irritating. The medical profession has been slow to learn this. Nothing satisfactory can be accomplished with douches, snuffs, powders, syringes, astringents or any similar application, because they are all irritating do not thoroughly reach the effected surfaces and should be abandoned as worse than failures. A multitude of persons who had for years borne all the worry and pain that catarrh can inflict testify to radical and permanent cures wrought by Ely's Cream Balm.

Special Notice.

After January 1st, 1888, (D. V.) I will devote my attention exclusively to diseases of women and diseases of the kidneys. All who are indebted to me will please call and settle.

How One Man Cured Dyspepsia.

After suffering twenty-five years with a weak, dyspeptic stomach, I am now aged 63 years, but thanks to health journals, or the application of the principles as therein laid down, I now have a stomach that I can beat like a base drum without flinching, and a back equal to any part of the body. My great cure all has been a careful study of a diet adapted to the wants and whims of a weak stomach, excessive rubbings and deep breathing. I have enjoyed almost uninterrupted good health for the last eight years; don't know what it is to be sick a day or ever have a headache. In proof of this fact, fifteen years and I abandoned horse shoeing on account of a weak stomach. Six years ago I took it up again, and am still shoeing up to the present time. The exercises must be persevered in as regular as the eating, taking from fifteen to thirty minutes, according to age and strength, the first thing in the morning, the last thing at night.—J. N. Semple in Herald of Health.

A Rival of Dynamite.

It may not be generally known that sauerkraut is a dangerous explosive. A Philadelphia kraut maker, who is cutting up 5,000 cabbages a day and probably knows what he is talking about, says: "If a cask of kraut is sealed when too fresh there is sure to be trouble. A cask of gunpowder is hardly more dangerous than a tightly corked barrel of fresh sauerkraut. As the stuff ferments it swells, and if vent is not furnished there is an explosion that shakes the foundation of the store and frightens the life out of the storekeeper, while the neighbors raise a cry of a dynamite plot. Seriously, sauerkraut is a dangerous article to handle."—San Francisco Alta.

To old persons and those who fear to derange their stomaches, Simmons Liver Regulator presents itself as a most admirable remedy. Owing to its mild action it can be taken by the weak and debilitated at all times and under any circumstances with perfect safety. One of the most venerable of the U. S. Senate, the late A. H. Stephens, of Ga., said "Simmons Liver Regulator, is mild and suits me better than more active remedies."

SCRATCHED 28 YEARS.

A Scaly, Itching Skin Disease with Endless Suffering Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

If I had known of the Cuticura Remedies twenty-eight years ago it would have saved me $200.00 (two hundred dollars) and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (Psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body and got under my nails. The scales would drop off me all the time, and my suffering was endless, and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease ever again. I am a poor man, but feel glad to be relieved of what some of the doctors said was leprosy, some ring worm, rasrias &c. etc. I took ... and ... Sarsaparilla over one year and a half, but no cure. I went to two or three doctors and no cure. I cannot praise the Cuticura Remedies too much. They have made my skin as clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them was three bottles of Cuticura, and three bottles of Cuticura Resolvent and two cakes of Cuticura Soap. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $2000, you would have had the money. I looked like the picture in your book of Psoriasis, pictured as "How to Cure Skin Diseases", but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, but to no purpose. I am all well. I scratched twenty-eight years, and it got to be a kind of second nature to me. I thank you a thousand times. Anything more that you want to know write me, or any one who reads this may write to me and I will answer it.

DON'T BLAME

a man for groaning when he has Rheumatism or Neuralgia. The pain is simply awful. No torture in the ancient times was more painful than these twin diseases. But—oughn't a man to be blamed if, having Rheumatism or Neuralgia, he wont use Ath-lo-pho-ros, when it has cured thousands who have suffered in the same way. It has cured hundreds after physicians have pronounced them incurable.

"The skill of five physicians could not cure me of Rheumatism which had settled in the hips, neck and shoulders. So intense was the pain that sleep was almost impossible. The first dose of Ath-lo-ros gave me relief, and the third enabled me to sleep for four and a half hours without waking. I continued its use and am now well. RAY S. HAVILAND, New Albany, Ind."

Benefits of the Moon.

The moon ministers to human wants in several ways that are not so apparent as its light-giving function, although some of them are much more important. It is by observing the position of the moon with reference to the fixed stars that the navigator determines his longitude. Upon the revolution of the moon about the earth is based a convenient division of time, the month, intermediate between that furnished by the earth's daily rotation and its revolution through its orbit. Doubtful points in ancient chronology have been frequently settled by means of eclipses of the moon, the dates of which could be accurately determined. The intervention of the moon in eclipsing the sun gave astronomers the opportunities for obtaining their first knowledge in regard to the solar envelope. But the largest effects on human welfare are produced by the moon through the agency of the tides. Twice a day the decomposing organic matter brought down to the seashore by rivers, or deposited along the water's edge by human agency, is swept away by the tidal wave in its course around the globe. This sanitary service which the moon performs is of inconceivable value. In many harbors, large ships and heavily-loaded rafts and barges are moved from the entrance to their wharves, miles above, by that slow and powerful tug, the flood-tide. An amount of work is thus done which, if it had to be provided by artificial means, would cost for such a port as London thousands, perhaps millions, of pounds yearly. Popular Science News.

ECHOES OF THE RAIL.

Several Little Accidents—A Surprised Pullman Car Porter—News and Gossip of the Day.

Engineer Quidore, of the Wabash, is now with the Nickel Plate.

The ticket agents all report travel as very light during the cold weather.

The organ factory is closed down for a few days on account of the scarcity of work.

The railroad depots present a dull and uninteresting appearance these cold mornings.

Car loads of bananas are passing through the city on the railroads almost every day.

F. P. Wade, district passenger agent of the Wabash, with headquarters at Indianapolis, was in the city to-day.

Bruce Beamer, one of the most pleasant railroad men in the country, is at the Aveline, accompanied by his wife.

Engineer McCann, with engine 1337, leased to the G. R. & I., has returned to Andrews and reported for work on the Wabash.

Owen McAree, foreman of the Andrews boiler-makers, is sick. Boiler-maker Seabold, of Fort Wayne, is in charge of his department.

James Hughes, the foreman in the Pittsburg works, who has been sick for some time, is but little better and is still kept at home.

Julius Parsway, who runs an axle lathe in the Base works, has been confined to his home for the last few weeks with severe sickness.

The Nickel Plate has just received two new mogul freight locomotives and three more will be added to its equipment within a few days.

The accidents that have happened around the railroads and shops during the last few days have furnished enough patients to start a good sized hospital.

Sam A. Grable, the efficient yard master of the Nickel Plate, can handle and make up more trains than any man holding the same position in the country.

Frank A. Opatz, a young employe of the Pittsburg blacksmith shops, was married yesterday to Miss Emma Perry, an accomplished young lady of this city.

Michael Ehrman, a machinist in the Pittsburg works, had his wrist badly sprained yesterday, while at work on the frame gang. He is off duty for a few days.

The drivers on the street railroad remain on duty fourteen hours a day. Their occupation during the winter months is not a pleasant one by any means.

Charles Doudrick, the Pittsburg brakeman who lost his limbs in a railroad wreck some months ago, is still confined to the room at his home on South Calhoun street.

Mr. Tom Meegan, the shop clerk at the Pittsburg works, goes to Huntington and several other Indiana towns this week on business connected with the St. Julian council.

M. Howley, a helper in the Pittsburg boiler shops, was injured yesterday by rivet which flew off and hit him in the eye. The injury will keep him from work for a few days.

There was something the matter with the boiler at Olds wheel works this morning and work in the different departments was suspended. The injury was repaired by noon and work was resumed.

The marriage mania among the boys in the manufacturing establishments of the city, which THE SENTINEL predicted several days ago, is now beginning to make itself manifest and the matrimonial ball has yet hardly got fairly started.

Two freight cars came together on the side track in front of the Pittsburg car shops yesterday with such force that both of them were pretty badly demolished. The fault seems to have been with the switchman. One of the cars was derailed.

F. G. Dasseler, a boiler maker in the Pittsburg works, while engaged in moving a boiler yesterday, had his arm nearly broken. One end of the boiler flew around, and hit him on the arm, inflicting a severe gash that will keep him a from work for several days.

The moulding rooms of the Base works, under charge of Foreman J. J. Stier and Frank Finke, are idle to-day on account of the non-arrival of iron and the large number of workmen employed in them are taking a vacation. The men in Fred Meyer's room went to work again this morning. The moulding rooms use about 800 tons of iron a day and their shipments seem to be delayed somewhere along the road.

The passenger train on the Wabash western from Chicago to Detroit was compelled to come around by the way of this city from Columbia City last night on account of some obstruction on the track between that place and La Otta and went over on the Grand Rapids to La Otta, where it resumed its own track. The porter on the Pullman car was ignorant of its round about way and when he reached this city and got off at the depot he was dumbfounded and rushed into the ticket office to inquire where he was. The passengers on the train were also ignorant of their whereabouts.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack whetever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.
